

In order to keep bad omens at bay, we've started a tradition. A practice of beating away all of our problems. One of these is the fact that we've been unable to grow our crops. We must stone someone in order to let all of our problems go away... so we started a raffle to select one scapegoat. It'll be unlikely that you will be stoned in your lifetime... so why not stone someone else?

FOR THE GOOD OF OUR CROPS

The lottery may seem like it's trying to do good, but its ignorance of innocents has done irreparable harm on our society. Before the lottery, we were all united regardless of whether or not a crop would grow. Now, we've all ended up against each other. We've treated each other like animals regardless of what we've done. So please, for the sake of our own kind, do not come to the lottery.
